

This document was found and translated at Clan Council 1107. It appears to refer to some of the lords of the Celtic Underworld:

“Seven lords of our dark spirits do rule in the lands what she did create for them. The lands what do exist beyond the mortal reach of our own and exists to balance those of her own splendorous halls, the realms of Annwfn were they called.

Of the seven one did rule above the other six and all served her who rules all things. His name be Ciara lord and keeper of Annwfn. His vassals six in number be thus:

Lord of Summer, who’s true name is never known, even to those who serve his will. The realm of Caer Feddwidd be his dominion, a savage land a wash with creatures from the deep and dark seas, sent to punish those what would fail in battle.

Bran lord of the fated resides over the realm of Caer Rigor. The failed and false heros of our land do go there to suffer in their eternal fate. Though Bran was born not to his fate he did take it freely in service of the one true mother.

Gwynn lord of all the dark and failed Fae. His dominion be that of Caer Wydr, the lands where all are hunted. Gwynn be the youngest of her children and brother to the one who rules all dark spirits.

Donn Lord of the Cave of Cruachen, is master of the doorway to the realms of all Annwfn. Donn watches over the door for light, while Donn watches over the door for darkness.”